Private Law Children: Case Law Update 2025

Particular consideration will be given to:

- Internal relocation: Re A and I (Children: Appeal: Relocation and joint lives-with orders: Fresh Evidence (2025) 1 FLR 407 Henke J. Domestic abuse and appeal from refusal by Circuit Judge to allow relocation (from London to another part of England) - and from shared care order: FPR 2010, Part 30, PD 12 J.
- International relocation: G v H (Relocation Australia: immigration issues) (2024) EWFC 230 (B) – Circuit judge allowed mother's permanent move back home to Australia with child, which was opposed by the father. Re D and E (Children: Assessment and Management of Risk) (2025) 1 FLR 505 Henke J. Contact, parental responsibility, assessment and management of 'risk', and section 91 (14) Children Act 1989 prohibiting further applications:
- Essential case law for fact-finding hearings: B v B (Domestic Abuse: Fact-Finding) (2022) EWHC 108 (Fam) – useful to consider the evidence of domestic abuse in clusters, which shows whether patterns of behaviour emerge. Re H-N (2021) EWCA Civ 448 & approach to fact finding exercise – need for the court to focus on the wider context of whether there has been a pattern of coercive and controlling behaviour as opposed to a list of specific factual incidents that are tied to a particular date and time. Re JK (A Child) (Domestic Abuse: Finding of Fact hearing) FD 21.5.2021 Poole JPD 36Z Pilot Scheme & private law reform/Pathfinder. 'Terminology of the section 8 order' AZ v BX (2024) EWHC 1528 (Fam) Poole J – not 'label litigation'- each case turns on its own facts and child's welfare paramount – increased tendency of the court to coin 'shared lives with' orders rather than one party only having a 'lives with' order?

Financial Orders: Case Law Update 2025

Particular consideration will be given to:

- Standish v. Standish UKSC/2024/0089. This significant recent case involves the so-called 'matrimonialisation' of assets despite legal title or 'pre-acquired' status and will prove highly influential in current practice.
- HO v TL [2023] EWFC 215. Business valuation and 'matrimonialisation'. This 2023 case still provides persuasive authority and guidance on the available methods of business valuation but also has relevance for 'matrimonialisation' issues.
- TW v GC [2024] EWHC 949 (Fam); and SP v. AL [2024] EWFC 72 (B). Pensions: needs or sharing? When should pension assets acquired outwith the marriage window be 'matrimonialised'?
